“TALKING PICTURES” FILM SERIES SCREENS FOUR ORSON WELLES FILMS

Film Series Launches by Spotlighting Iconic Film Master

SAN DIEGO – The San Diego Public Library will screen four cinema masterpieces by legendary filmmaker/star Orson Welles every Friday in October at 2:30 p.m. in the 3rd floor auditorium of the Central Library, located at 820 E Street in downtown San Diego. This Welles retrospective is the inaugural offering of the library’s weekly Friday Talking Pictures movie showcase, a world-spanning celebration of contemporary and classic cinema. Audience discussions will oftentimes follow the screenings. This event is FREE and open to the public.

October 8 – Citizen Kane – With the death of newspaper baron, Kane, a reporter delves into his past trying to find the meaning of “Rosebud”. Greatest film ever according to many critics.

October 14 – The Magnificent Ambersons – An upper class family breaks down as feuds, town gossip, and death weigh on their future.

October 21 – The Third Man – After arriving in post WWII Vienna to meet his friend, Holly Martins finds he is dead. As facts stop adding up, he goes in search of “The Third Man.”

October 28 – A Touch of Evil – A Mexican drug enforcement official takes interest in a cross border case that reaches into corruption and betrayal.
